Advancing Economic Security & Racial Equity

In 1969, CLASP emerged from the passion of young advocates determined to elevate the voices of unrepresented populations and to counter powerful special interests in Washington, D.C.

CLASP initially focused on environmental issues, consumer protection, access to and responsiveness of the media, women's rights and, health and mental health problems.

In the early 80's CLASP evolved to focus on poverty as its central mission. Today, we remain steadfast in the face of difficult battles to fight poverty and to address issues adversely impacting people of color and immigrants.

The future is uncertain. But history teaches us that without strong advocates like CLASP, policy makers in Washington, D.C. and in state capitols will fail to understand and address the needs of people with low-incomes, immigrant families and children, and people of color.

We invite you to make a long-term investment in CLASP's mission – to reduce poverty, promote economic security and confront the barriers faced by people of color – by including CLASP in your estate and financial plans.

CLASP's Legacy Society

We recognize that including CLASP in your plans is a significant decision. That's why we've established the CLASP Legacy Society to honor individuals who have informed us of their estate gift intentions.

As a Society member, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that your estate gift will help CLASP to empower new generations of passionate and effective advocates to push forward and fight back.

Your Legacy Options

Choose to leave a legacy in a way that works for you:

- Remember CLASP in your Will or Living Trust
- Name CLASP as a beneficiary of a retirement account, life insurance policy, bank or brokerage account
- Make a gift to CLASP directly from your IRA (only applicable for people at least 70 ½ years old)
- Establish a gift that pays you income AND ultimately benefits CLASP, like a Charitable Remainder Trust
